Strategic Agenda American Studies Minor

In keeping with the mission statement of the minor that seeks to provide students both a broad range of courses and a methodology to synthesize the content of those courses the following are the goals of the Strategic Agenda of the American Studies minor.

1. To broaden student awareness of the diversity of American life.

2. To help students develop a methodology for critical study of American culture politics, social issues, and art.

3. To recruit students from a wide variety of majors to participate in the program.

4. To encourage minors to study abroad at two excellent centers of American Studies: Keele and Nijmegen (universities with which we have exchanges) in order to give students another perspective of America.

5. To seek funding for scholarships for American Studies minors.